- 25X1C
1. Between 9 a.m. and noon on 21 October 1951, there was no flying at Alt Loennewitz airfield. There was a high and scattered cloud ceiling. Five jet aircraft were parked in the northwestern section of the field. About 15 large crates were observed in front of the third hangar from the west. Trucks [redacted] sedans [redacted] motor vehicle [redacted] and ambulance [redacted] entered and left the field. 25X1C 25X1C
  2. No change was observed on the radio installations at the field on 27 October. The homes in the former village of Alt Loennewitz were still occupied by about 100 air force soldiers whereas two thirds of the homes in Falkenberg along the road to the field, which were previously occupied by Russian dependents, were evacuated. Residents from Falkenberg said that there were no indications that these houses were to be reoccupied by Russians.
  3. A noticeably large number of arriving and departing air force officers and EM were observed at Falkenberg railroad station. Ten tank trucks of the Derunaft Company were parked on the spur track north of the runway. Radio truck [redacted] was observed on the road along the southern edge of the field. A radio truck of the same type was previously observed north of the runway during flying activity. Sedan [redacted] occupied by high ranking Soviet Air Force officers, was observed. * 25X1C 25X1C

25X1A* Comment. The present occupation of Alt Loennewitz airfield is not clearly known. According to observed shipments, it is believed that elements of the two fighter regiments and their ground units were previously stationed in Alt Loennewitz. They were transferred according to another source, some aircraft and [redacted] radio station of the fighter division headquarters are still at Alt Loennewitz airfield. The presence of many aircraft crates indicates that the transfer of the units has not been completed. It is believed that the units from Alt Loennewitz left the Soviet Zone of Germany.
